Author and educator David Levine will continue his relationship with Lisle District 202 as he speaks to the community for a second time on January 25, 2011 at 7:00pm. The Lisle community is pleased to work with David as we continue to address the need for pro-social behavior and creating a culture of caring in our schools in order to combat bullying.

Mr. Levine is a visiting teacher and facilitator with 18 years of experience in the field of education. He is founder of In Care of Students - a training, development, and research group devoted to creating "Schools of Belonging."

All community members from Lisle and surrounding communities, parents and staff members are welcome to attend this presentation at no charge.

During this presentation, audience members will:

- gain a better understanding of what pro-social and anti-social behaviors include
- learn strategies to successfully address anti-social behaviors in children
- gather information about methods of building a "Culture of Caring" both in our schools at home
- gain insight on how to raise and educate children who are caring and empathetic
